DEAD HEATERS AT JAMAICA

TRANCE AND FITZ HERBERT FINISH LEVEL
IN THE ELMHURST STAKES.

Old Honesty First in the Long Beach Handicap—
Masquerade Outspurts Aletheuo—Shilling
Rides in His Santa Anita Form.

New York, May 2.—The Elmhurst Stakes, the two-year-old feature at Jamaica today, resulted in a dead heat between Trance and Fitz Herbert. Musgrave, who rode Trance, tried to make a straight victory, for he easily beat Aletheuo, and under the rules a dead heat between two-year-olds cannot be run off, the purse was divided. While there were seven starters the race appeared to be between the dead heaters, and they were equal choices at the opening of speculation. But there was a big difference in weights in favor of Trance over the last meeting of the two, when Fitz Herbert won easily, and this brought the filly the bulk of the support, she closing the favorite.

Fitz Herbert broke quickly and made the pace with Erbet and Trance the contenders. Just before the turn for home was reached, Musgrave started to go up on the inside with Trance, but Shilling, on Fitz Herbert, quickly blocked the move, crowding Trance to the fence. Musgrave then went to the outside and in a drive through the stretch Trance got up to make it a dead heat. Trance appeared the winner when a sixteenth out, but Fitz Herbert showed wonderful gameness under punishment. Musgrave exhibited boot marked by whitewash where he was crowded against the fence as evidence of the foul claimed, but the stewards took the ground that he had tried to go through when there was not sufficient room and his claim was dismissed. Trance ran in the colors of George Odom, who purchased her yesterday and it was rather hard luck for the young owner to miss the stake which would have contributed materially toward her purchase price, as it was generally conceded after the race that she was best and would have won with good racing luck.

The tabulated history of the Elmhurst Stakes is as follows:

Year.	Winner.	Wt.	Jockey.	Val.	Time.
1903 Race King	98	Puller	$1,480.00	1:50 1/2
1904 Niblick	104	H. Phillips	1,470.00	1:50 1/2
1905 Leon J. Hayman	99	J. Kelly	1,300.00	1:50 1/2

*Dead heat.

The running of the Long Beach Handicap demonstrated the wisdom of Tom Welch in starting McCarter for the Excelsior in preference to Spooner, for seemingly the latter is nothing more than a sprinter, at the present time at any rate. Spooner was an odds-on favorite for the Long Beach, but after leading for seven furlongs tired badly and Old Honesty, well rated by Musgrave throughout, won easily from Riffelman. Old Honesty was well backed both at the track and away and justified all of the good things said about him before the running of the Excelsior.

J. A. Wernberg cut loose a good thing in the sprint handicap in Masquerade, a cast-off from the Keene stable, which had enough left after leading all the way to stall off the stretch rush of Aletheuo, the favorite, which was woefully shy of early speed.

Shilling, who has been something of a disappointment here, showed something of his best form today. In addition to his dead heat on Fitz Herbert he won the last race with Zal. He showed a flash of the riding that put him at the top of the list last winter at Santa Anita, by getting away from the post well and putting up a very strong finish when Zal was challenged by Frizzette in the stretch.

Not one favorite won, except for Trance's dead heat, and the public, which turns out in generous numbers, had all the worst of the speculation. The weather was sufficiently attractive at noon time to bring out a big attendance, but before the racing began it had become cold and windy and the day was far from enjoyable.

The steeplechase field at Belmont Park was thrown open for schooling this morning and much good work of this character was done. T. S. Martin, winner of the Whitney Memorial last year and a candidate for this season's renewal, made a very brilliant showing.

John M. P., which will probably meet T. S. Martin in the New York Steeplechase on the opening day of the meeting, was not out, but has been training well. Sanctus and St. Kevin, stable mates of T. S. Martin, also schooled in a thoroughly satisfactory manner and give every indication of redeeming the promise they gave as three-year-olds, but which they did not fulfill last year.

James Blute is pointing Halket for the Latonia Derby and if the colt does well and shows a liking for the Derby route, he will be sent west for the race.

Jockey Shaw was sick today and his physician has ordered him to remain at home.

GREAT DOINGS AT HISTORIC OLD PIMLICO.
Society Folks from Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia Present in Force.

Baltimore, Md., May 2.—Today was society day at Pimlico. The conditions of two of the races called for gentlemen riders and another was a steeplechase for hunters over the two and a half mile course. The winner of the latter was also ridden by a gentleman jockey, Mr. Carroll Smith, who came over from New York to ride his entry, Pete Dailey. Society turned out in force, a large delegation coming over from Washington, and another from Philadelphia to witness the sport. It was the banner day of the Maryland Jockey Club meeting.

The program was an excellent one and the majority of the races furnished keen contests. The finishes in two of the races were close enough to leave the winner in doubt until the official placings was displayed. Autumn Maid and Montbret both winning their races by noses in the last stride.

The Carrollton Cup at seven furlongs, with gentlemen riders in the saddle, proved an easy victory for Monte Carlo, which made a runaway affair of the race, winning easily by a length and a half from Beggarman. Rio Grande, which finished third, could not have lost with an intelligent ride. He was pulled up at the start and trudged along in the rear until the race was practically over, when he closed up with great burst of speed.

The Glenmore Steeplechase proved little better than an exercise gallop for Pete Dailey. He took the lead after his stable companion My Grace had unseated his rider at the fifth jump and the remainder of the trip simply cantered along in front.

The Maryland Hunt Cup was a journey of four

LOUISVILLE'S NEW BETTING DEPARTURE.

How Results from Mutuals and Auctions Will Appear in Daily Racing Form, and Method of Calculating Mutuals.

To race-goers of the present generation the system of betting that will be in operation at the coming Louisville meeting is a novelty, although well-known and popular thirty years ago. It is, except as to the auction pools, the method of betting in France, Australia and Italy, and the fairest ever devised to enable any number of persons to wager over the result of an event of common interest. Auction pooling is purely American and the present prevailing betting system of the trotting turf. When the first Kentucky Derby was won by Aristides in 1875 all of the betting was in auction pools and mutuals exclusively, so the coming experiment is only a return to first principles.

The least sum that can be bet in the mutuals, as they will be operated at Louisville, is $5. The bettor receives one ticket on the horse of his choice for that sum. If he desires to bet $100 he is handed twenty $5 tickets, or one hundred tickets if he is a heavy speculator and bets $500. In the old days when much betting was done at New York tracks in the mutuals, $25 tickets were provided for the plumbets. But all money received goes into one aggregate sum and is divided on the basis of an equal dividend to each $5 ticket sold on the winners.

During the progress of the Louisville meeting Daily Racing Form's charts of each race will present the particulars they now do, with such variation as will be necessary in order to show the speculative results. How this will be done is illustrated by this presentation of the style of chart which will be used for the meeting:

74471 FIRST RACE—4 1-2 Furlongs Straight. (72489—52—2—104.) $700 added. 2-year-olds. Selling. Net value to winner $710.

Madrileno paid straight $15.25, place $7.65, show $5.10. Instant, place $14.05, show $7.00. Distract, place $13.50.

In practice the chart will show the actual number of tickets, straight, place and show, sold on each horse, and the resulting dividends to the backers of the placed horses, and will also give an average of the auction pools. The names and numbers here used are merely for illustration. In actual practice, if Markham had won the race his tickets would have paid $786.10 straight and proportionately large dividends place and show. Big dividends are not at all uncommon in mutual betting, and the Louisville racing will show many instances.

Daily Racing Form published an exhaustive description of pari-mutuals and their mathematics April 12, and to refresh the memories of its readers reproduces here that part of the article which shows in detail how values are calculated:

Let it be presumed that a race in which there are twelve horses is about to be run, and that the following diagram represents the number of tickets sold against one horse:

Straight.

	Tickets Sold.
1-Hindoo	285
2-Checkmate	215
3-Parole	168
4-Thora	94
5-Luke Blackburn	113
6-Bancroft	162
7-Fellowplay	69
8-Lelex	52
9-Liatunah	26
10-Field (three horses)	17
Total	1,132

Let it be presumed that Parole won, Fellowplay was second and Hindoo third. This calculation, however, only concerns the first horse, or winner. Number of straight tickets sold in the race, 1,132. Multiply by 5 to obtain amount in dollars, 5.

Total amount in pool, $5,660. Deduct 5 per cent. commission for expenses, 283.

Balance, $5,377 by 168, which is the number of tickets sold on Parole:

168)3377(32

594

337

336

Parole therefore pays $32.00 for each straight ticket, or nearly 5½ for one.

In the same race, presuming that the following miles on the flat and the winner turned up in Lansdale, which beat Firefly out a length and a half. Firefly would have won had Mr. Kerr had better judgment in rating his mount.

The opening race, which called for two-year-olds, furnished a rattling good finish, in which Autumn Maid just succeeded in getting up in the last few strides and outgamed Aronack.

In the fifth race Montbret just managed to last long enough to beat out Cooney K. The latter swerved at a vital point in the stretch run and this beat him.

In the second race the stewards took the view that Orfano had fouled Cartwheel in the last few strides, and set him back. The ruling was very far-fetched, and when the numbers were changed there were very few horsemen on the ground who really knew where the foul had taken place. Orfano and Cartwheel fought it out all of the last furlong and the latter was staggering at the finish and repeatedly bumped Orfano.

Dersingham, which started in the first race, carried Mr. F. Wilson's colors, he having purchased the colt from the Chelsea Stable last night.

Dr. J. S. Tyree of Washington has purchased the two-year-old Indian Hunter from Mrs. R. W. Allen. The price was $1,500.

W. Pangie is gathering together a stable to race on the northern circuit. He returned from New York today and announced that he had purchased Frank Weis, the three-year-old, Tim O'Toole, and two two-year-olds by Woolsthorpe, one a half-brother to Cohort and another a half-brother to Choate.

Jockey Tucker was suspended for three days by the stewards for rough riding in the first and second races.

The following is a result of a sale held in the paddock before the races this afternoon: Arlington, R. I. Miller, $100; Com. Thomas, R. J. Walder, $350; Shackle, W. E. Pierce, $105; Jennie Wells, M. Hogan, $50; Golden Sea, C. Daughton, $40; Marston, H. J. McCarthy, $80; Reina Swift, E. Utterback, $125; Gertrude Lee, E. Utterback, $75; Busy Boy, T. White, $75; Tillie Toddington, C. Daughton, $55; Wilton Lackaye, T. F. Coles, $600.

Divide this $3,539 in halves, which makes $1,769.50 each. Divide $1,769.50 by 112, which is the number of tickets sold on Parole, and also by 58, which is the number sold on Fellowplay:

Parole	Fellowplay
112)1,769.50(15.70	58)1,769.50(30.50
649	295
560	290
895	50
784

Reduce to dollars. Deduct this sum from the $4,389 in pool.... $50

$3,339

Leaving a balance of.... $4,389

Add together number of tickets sold on the two horses that ran 1—2, viz:

Parole 112

Fellowplay 58

170

Reduce to dollars. Deduct this sum from the $4,389 in pool.... $50

$3,339

To each of the above results ($15.70 and $30.50) must be added the original investment money of $5 each, which was deducted in the first instance, so that Parole pays $20.70 (or about 3 to 1) and Fellowplay $35.50 for each place ticket.

The calculation for the third-place tickets is similar to the foregoing, the only difference being that, in making it, provision must be made for three sets of winning tickets in the pool, instead of two, as in the place betting.

DOCTOR LEGGO READY TO RACE AGAIN.

Dr. Leggo, the six-year-old bay horse by Puryear D.—Sevens, which was retired early in the year as useless as a racing proposition, is again to be put in training by C. G. McCafferty, who has entered him in a number of stakes to be run during the summer. Not only has he been nominated for the $5,000 Exposition Stakes and other events at Seattle, but in a number of the more important events at Butte. The horse does not take a lame step and McCafferty intends to have him jogging along with Joe Nealon and Jacomo at the Two Rock Farm. He is apparently as sound as the day he won the Burns Handicap and may surprise some of those who have reckoned him a "has been."

ST. LOUIS FAIR GROUNDS TO BE CUT UP.

St. Louis, May 2.—The old St. Louis Fair Grounds, at which there has been no racing since the enforcement of the anti-race track betting law in Missouri several years ago, will be divided into building lots as the result of a deal just closed here. There are 167 acres in the tract, which is located at Grand Avenue and Natural Bridge Road, in a good section of the city and was traded by a syndicate headed by L. A. Cellia, in part payment for the fifteen-story Missouri-Lincoln Trust Building at Seventh and Olive Streets. The price of the building is given as $1,650,000 and the Fair Grounds property represented $1,000,000 in the deal.

DERIVATION OF PERRIER'S NAME.

Perrier, the King's candidate and favorite for the Derby, is generally supposed to have been so christened after the table water of that name. With a little justifiable exaggeration, however, "Perrier" becomes a notable example of the class of nomenclature which brings in the names of an animal's parents. "Per" is the first syllable of Persimmon, the name of his sire, while that of his dam, Amphora, is the Latin term for a flagon or flask, both these things belonging to the great bottle family.

KENTUCKY DERBY DAY NEARLY HERE.

mile race at Lexington, finishing third to J. R. Wainwright's Terah. Fizer had felt that his son of Falsetto was unbeatable in the Derby, and consequently in no danger in any kind of a race with other starters. Possibly jockey Butler spilled the beans, but in remains that Milford lacked speed and staying power. May be as Fizer says, it was ill racing luck. At all events Milford lost many supporters. However, Milford is looked upon as a certain starter in the big race, and he has reached Churchill Downs from Lexington and is in good condition. Fizer says that any horse that could run a mile in less than 1:40 at New Orleans, which Milford did, can go fast enough in the Derby, but this argument will lead individuals who study the various angles to say that if Milford could do no better than show in a mile race with Terah, with ninety-two and a half pounds on his back, he will have all kinds of trouble shouldering 117 in the Derby and making any headway with it.

In the meantime, Terah's owner feels that if his horse had been left in the Derby he could have won it handily. George C. Bennett, just before selling Terah in New Orleans to Wainwright for $850, declared Terah from the Derby. Since then the horse has been showing exceptional speed.

Surprises came fast during the week concerning the rise and fall of Derby idols. While Milford was apparently dropping to a lowly position in the public's estimation, Frank Bird, owned by W. A. Hughes, and Gilvedear, the property of Allan Steele, shot across the racing horizon. Frank Bird worked a mile and a quarter at Pimlico in 2:08, and Gilvedear went the same distance in 2:09. Sir Hanover won the Derby in 2:08 and John E. Maden's Plaudit won in 1898 in 2:09. Acliff's time was 2:10, and Pink Star was first last year in 2:12, but the track was heavy and holding.

If Frank Bird, which is by Gotham—Messala, and Gilvedear, which is a son of Giganteum—Sea Puss, can repeat their work at Pimlico they will be dangerous. Frank Bird will arrive at Churchill Downs on Monday. He will be ridden, it is understood, by J. T. McFadden. Gilvedear will reach the course tomorrow. He is small, swift and can carry weight. Gilvedear was bred in New Jersey. Recently he won at Benning and finished second in another race.

Banridge is coming along fast in his trials. He will go to the post sure if the track is heavy. His owner, Barney Schreiber, has given special instruction regarding his preparation. He feels that Banridge has a chance. This horse was hardened at City Park and Fair Grounds in serving as Jack Atkins' pacemaker during the racing season recently closed there, and he kept improving in going a distance. He ran some good races with Angels, Miss Delaney, Darling Dan and others. In the Angels race he was beaten only a length and a nose. In the race with Darling Dan, at a mile and seventy yards, he was beaten a neck. Darling Dan had a shade of nine pounds in weight. In soft going he is right at home. Banridge probably will be knocking at the door when the Derby is run.

Dr. Mathews, Edward Alvey's Derby horse, was worked a mile in 1:45. The track was slow. This trial was satisfactory, but the announcement was made that the horse had pulled up lame. It is probable that the colt will start, and if he does he will bear watching. Alvey is a man of luck, and he does not race his horses altogether for fun. Grover Baker trains for the stable, and he seems to know how to get horses ready for the races.

Dunvegan, from the stable of J. N. Camden, Jr., and Bill Herron, which belongs to Barney Dreyfuss, the Pittsburgh baseball man, are no longer "dark horses." They were uncovered at Lexington, and their trainers were disgusted at the showing each made. If either of them can win the Kentucky Derby it will be safe to bet that William H. Taft can win a foot race with Louisville's champion runner, Nat Cartmel.

Synchronized positively will not start in the Derby. He has been in disgrace since the day Terah ran away from him and hid. Stone Street is a probable starter. He belongs to C. E. Hamilton. Uncertain starters are Dunvegan, Bill Herron, Al Muller, Alomar, Cymbal, Zagg, Pink Cap and Marcus Aurelius.

The officials at the spring meeting at Churchill Downs will be Presiding Judge, Charles F. Price; Associate Judges, Charles F. Grainer and Will Shelly; Secretary and Handicapper, Lyman H. Davis; Starter, J. J. Holtzman; Starting Judge, Walter H. Pearce; Patrol Judge, Charles C. Foster; Paddock Judge, John Walsh; Timer, George Lin denberger.

KENTUCKY DERBY DAY NEARLY HERE.

Louisville, Ky., May 2.—Every year since 1875, in the month of May, a thoroughbred is crowned a Derby winner at Churchill Downs, the oldest race track in America in point of continuous existence. Just so often does the blood of every true son of the commonwealth tingle in anticipation of this blue ribbon event, and right now the natives are deeply absorbed in the result, for the thirty-fourth renewal of the classic is at hand. Next Tuesday is Derby day.

A Derby day in the land of fleet horses is more than an incident. It is an occasion or general justification. Rich and poor witness the race if it is a physical possibility. Time was when the field was free and the populace journeyed to the course on foot and in every conceivable style of conveyance to see "horses that were horses from muzzle to heel." But the gates were closed and black and white, young and old, little and big, were asked to flash credentials to gatemen. It made no difference. The public kept right on coming, and the public will be there on May 5—the blue-blonds of the state, the beauty, chivalry and all that, all on an equal footing, all trying to pick the winner.

When those of a speculative tendency dig into their pockets to render themselves eligible to back their faith they will find themselves carried back to that day when a Kentucky-bred horse, Prosecutor Knott, bowed to the supremacy of an opponent that was bred in Illinois and came from the far west—Spokane. That was in 1889, the year when the pari-mutuels ceased to exist in the west and in America, for the bookmakers gained individual supremacy that year, and he has thrived on scandal that has driven him step by step to the outer walls in many states, with Kentucky one of the last to bid him good-bye. Resurrection comes after patience has long been exhausted. The pari-mutuel machines are out in action after they had been forgotten, and are made to serve the purpose of redeeming the betting end of the turf and making secure its future.

The whole turf world, that is, in America, will watch with interest the result of this innovation. The bookmakers' influence on race tracks is not a theory; it is a matter of record and regret, and men of experience who have the welfare of racing at heart say he must become a memory, and the pari-mutuel machine must become a fixture.

Smart ones say Sir Cleges is going to win the Derby. If this prophecy is verified it will add to the record of George J. Long, a triple victory of the Derby. And if his Sir Cleges is first under the wire it will be the fourth son of Falsetto that has been crowned a winner of the Kentucky classic. Chan was the first of Falsetto's sons to triumph. That was in 1894. In 1901 his Eminence won, and in 1906 Sir Huon captured it. This is a record unsurpassed by any other sire in this country.

Sir Cleges' trials lead to the belief that he will develop into as great a horse as his half-brother, Sir Huon. In a mile and a quarter work-out last Wednesday he stepped the distance in 2:10. At the end he was not taking a short breath. The track was slow and spongy in spots. The trial was made when the wind was sweeping from the Downs, and it was raining. The air was raw. A more unfavorable time could not have been selected for the try-out, but it proved just what trainer Clegg had all along contended—that Sir Cleges is really a grand piece of racing machinery.

All along Coyne had known that Sir Cleges and Balbus would loaf if worked separately, so he set the pair down side by side to get every ounce out of them. They had not gone a quarter of a mile until it was seen that Balbus could not get close enough to look into the eye of his stable mate. Sir Cleges, at the faintest sound of his pursuer's approach, let out a link and went right on about his business. Reaching the half mile ground he was a picture. His motion was perfection. With a long, low stride he devoured space. At the three-quarters he had increased it and at the mile he was going still faster. The sturdy, chunky Balbus, a sprinter through and through, was making a gallant struggle, but the trimly built bay colt was going too fast. Sir Cleges looked and acted just like Sir Huon, and Coyne said that the horse would show in his three-year-old form that few racers in the west can get close to him. After Sir Cleges had gone a mile he was pulled up and cantered off the eighth. So old Balbus. When he saw the other horse taking his time he began to loaf, too.

The boy who rode Sir Cleges said that the colt had his head in the air all the time he was running and that he could have run the mile in much faster time than 1:45. The track was deep in mud and at least two seconds slow.

While Milford, which is owned by W. H. Fizer, was first choice in the Derby a week since, he is not liked as well now as some of the horses which were not accorded a chance to finish in the money until a day or two ago. Milford exploded in a
